

SIXTEENTH REGIMENT.

THE Sixteenth regiment was organized at Camp Curtin on the 3d of May 1861, by the choice of the following officers: Thomas A. Ziegle, of York from Captain of company A, Colonel; George J. Higgins, of Tamaqua, from Captain of company D, Lieutenant Colonel; Frank T. Bennett, of Minersville, from Captain of company K, Major; William Brown was appointed Adjutant. Five of the companies were from Schuylkill county, and had held a previous organization in the uniformed militia, forming part of the 1st Brigade, 6th Division. Company C was recruited at Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, by Captain Jacob Dorsheimer, and was mustered into the United States service on the 20th of April, for three years or the war. This was the first company of Pennsylvanians that volunteered for the long term. The remaining companies were recruited in York county.

Immediately after its organization, it was ordered to Camp Scott, near the town of York, where the men were clothed and regularly drilled. Upon the inauguration of the campaign in the Shenandoah valley, the Sixteenth was ordered to Chambersburg, where camp equipage was supplied, and it was assigned to the 4th Brigade* of the 1st Division. Joining in the general forward movement, which commenced about the middle of June, the regiment proceeded to the Potomac, and on the 16th, crossed with the advance Division; but soon after returned and remained encamped near the river until the 2d of July. On the return of the Brigade, its commander, Colonel Miles, was ordered to Washington, where he was assigned to the command of the 5th Division, of M'Dowell's army, which held the left of the line in the battle of Bull Run, and Colonel Longnecker, of the Ninth Pennsylvania, succeeded him.

Upon the initiation of a second forward movement, two regiments of infantry and a battery of three heavy guns were left for the defence of Williamsport and the line of supply. The advancing force consisted of about eleven thousand men, and one battery of six smooth-bore guns. The enemy were encountered on the way, but quickly put to flight, and the army moved rapidly to Martinsburg. Here a halt was ordered which continued several days, for the purpose of bringing up a sufficient store of supplies † to warrant a further advance.

* Organization of the 4th Brigade, Colonel Dixon S. Miles, 1st Division, Major General Geo. Cadwalader. Detachments of the Second and Third United States infantry, Major Sheppard commanding; Ninth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, Colonel H. C. Longnecker; Thirteenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, Colonel Thomas A. Rowley; Sixteenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, Colonel Thomas A. Zeigle.

† Since I last addressed you I have made no movements, in fact have been prevented by the necessity of sending all my wagons to the rear, to obtain provisions for a few days in advance, and to bring up troops. * * * Though the Quartermaster has spared no exertions, and his agents have been very active, he has not, as yet, been able to provide a supply train for the

On the 15th of July, the regiment moved to Bunker Hill, and on the 17th made a forced march towards Harper's Ferry. At Smithfield the Brigade halted and was placed in position to repel an attack* from the right flank. After the passage of the main column, the Brigade resumed the march, and encamped that night at Charlestown. Remaining here till near the expiration of its term of service, the regiment proceeded to Harrisburg, where, on the 30th of July, it was mustered out.

command. I am, therefore, much restricted in my movements, being compelled, after three days' advance, to send back for provisions. The difficulty will increase as I advance; indeed I am now almost at a stand. Conduct of the War, Vol. II, p. 130, No. 27.

*On the morning of our march to Charlestown, Stuart's cavalry, which figured so vigorously at Bull Run, was upon my flank all day. They were apparently about eight hundred strong. I saw them constantly on my flank for a number of miles; I could distinguish them with my glass with great ease. Conduct of the War, Vol. II, p. 61.
